INVESTMENT APPROACH

Our approach is deceptively simple. We buy high-quality, undervalued businesses and hold them until the market fully recognizes their potential. This requires an ability to think independently and a commitment to the thorough research required to uncover opportunities the market doesn't fully appreciate.

We believe the best way to buy a business at an attractive price is to have an idea that isn't widely shared by others – what we refer to as a proprietary insight. We focus on companies with strong competitive positions, defensible barriers to entry and long-term growth prospects that are run by competent management teams.

EDGEPOINT OF VIEW

Sector breakdown: This is provided only because the industry feels it helps explain portfolio diversification and risk. We believe risk is best managed by diversifying by business idea and viewing risk as the potential for permanent loss of capital rather than using traditional sector allocations

Risk profile: Risk is typically defined as standard deviation or volatility compared to an index. While we follow this methodology due to regulatory requirements and classify the portfolio risk as moderate, we view real risk as the potential for a permanent loss of capital. By this measure, we believe portfolio risk is further reduced

Investment results: We measure investment success over periods of ten years or more and believe it takes considerable skill to consistently add value over the long term. As such, we place little value in the short-term investment results shown

MER: Effective July 1, 2010, HST came into effect increasing the sales tax portion of the Series A MER to approximately 0.25%. Taxes are the largest component of the Portfolio's operating expenses

Low-cost operation: By having higher minimum investment requirements, a focused product offering and no expensive marketing campaigns, we're able to pass on savings to our investors through lower MERs, ultimately resulting in higher investment returns

Portfolio: We use "portfolio" rather than "fund" because we believe this better represents the diversification our products offer

Alignment: EdgePoint employees are our single-largest investor
